

ABSTRACT

A bi-directional log splitter having at least two stationary splitting wedges and a moveable ram therebetween for splitting wood, said splitter being mounted on a trailer where the 5 splitter exerts a substantially equal force for both the exertion and the retraction strokes to increase the production of split wood.